New Product in UK – FSC Certified Morado from Urbane Living

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

London, December 1, 2008 – Urbane Living added sustainably sourced exotic Morado flooring to their engineered wood flooring range.

A very special and rare species, Morado is a South American wood renowned for its striking dark brown heartwood and beautiful grains. Adam Robertson, the co-founder of Urbane Living explains “Morado hardwood has long been used for making decorative veneers and musical instruments. The exotic timber is extremely hard offering a floor with exceptional beauty and durability”.

Urbane Living’s Morado Wood Flooring is sourced from sustainable forests with the chain of custody covered by the FSC certification system ensuring the timber is from a sustainable source.
