

FSC Certified Structural Limed Oak Flooring from Urbane Living

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

London, December 1, 2008 – Urbane Living introduced a range of three beautiful shades of gray to their wood flooring range.

To achieve the natural and elegant hue, the boards have been hand finished with traditional liming technique on a European Oak hardwood from FSC certified forests. A super wide board of 220mm, the floor comes with a 6mm wear layer on 14mm birch ply offering a long lasting plank with excellent stability.

Adam Robertson, co-founder of Urbane Living describes the range as “beautiful greys inspired by classic contemporary styles.” As they are 20mm thick, the structural oak boards are suitable for installing directly to joists, secret nailed or glued down or floated above an underlay..

Urbane Living supplies a wide range of Solid and Engineered flooring including exotic and unusual species such as Tiger Wood, Purple Heart and Macaranduba. Their wood flooring are milled either from reclaimed or FSC (the Forestry Stewardship Council) or PEFC (Programme for the Endorsement of Forest Certification Schemes) certified timber that guarantees sustainability.
